New Faces Shine in 'Point Of No Return' Production

Charles Groghan, right, conveys his feeling to Ted MacKechnie and Merle Reiff in 'Point of No Return.'

The University Theater opened its 1960 season Thursday evening with Paul Osborn's dramatic comedy "Point of No Return."

Cater Predicts Kennedy Stand

By Bill Vogt

"The greatest challenge facing the new president is the concept of long-range planning," Douglas Cater said Wednesday at the sixth and final Institute of World Affairs.

Cater, Washington editor of Reporter magazine, said the new idea of investing in foreign programs which will bring slow returns will be an essential part of this long-range policy.

He said it is not possible to compare President-elect Kennedy's problems with those of past administrations, as the nature of the challenge is entirely different and cannot be isolated into emergencies which may be met by crash programs.

He observed that domestic problems, such as inflation and armament, and foreign problems, such as relations with new nations, are interrelated. These, he said, must be met by a president who is both a "politician and a poet, able to touch the heart-strings of the people."

Cater predicted that Kennedy as President will meet his challenge by stepping up expenditures for new weapons to maintain a carefully achieved stalemate.

He said the new president must be constantly looking for means of reducing world tension without losing sight of the "schizophrenic nature of Russian intrigues and changeability."

Cater reported that Russians are developing a great faith in their cause. He said that Khrushchev is an "arrogant and dedicated man" who is totally preoccupied with the future of his country, and that the most pressing need for American people today is to believe just as strongly that the U.S. has something worthwhile to present.

ADC Men to Sing At OU Convo

USAADC?? It stands for US Army Air Defense Command whose nationally-known choral group will sing at OU at a special convocation.

All students are invited to attend the convocation in the main auditorium at 10:30 a. m., Thursday, Dec. 1.

The 35-man group has appeared in half the states and Canada.

sal looked like a multiple version of "A Star Is Born" for five or six newcomers to the University Theater.

The play adaptation from John Marquand's satirical book on human nature and social codes in America will have repeat performances tonight and Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in the university auditorium.

The story concerns a man, conditioned by youthful humiliations and the American ideal of getting ahead, who directs his life to "success" after he and his wife briefly imagine failure.

Charles Groghan plays the young financier while Merle Reiff plays his ambitious but delightful wife.

Vija Briedis plays the town's rich girl and the hero's first love who is emotionally tied to her unyielding snob of a father Ted MacKechnie.

Jimmie Painter takes the role of the financier's money-and prestige-hungry father while Dave Selner is an observant, talkative social anthropologist who comes to make a study.

The 52-member staff is under the direction of Dr. Edwin L. Clark.

A critical review of Thursday's performance will appear in the next Gateway issue.

Reservations may still be obtained at the boxoffice, first floor center of the Administration Building.

Debaters to Enter Week-end Tourneys

Those debaters attending the Kearney Debate Discussion Conference are Howard Hagglund, Bill Stillmock, Jim Common, John Cady and Ron Bojanski.

Rod Hansen, Max Voigt, Dick Bakkerud and Al Henderson will take the trek to the Intercollegiate Speech Conference at the University of South Dakota.

Hurst Returns to OU

Psychology instructor Dr. Francis Hurst officially returned to teaching classes last Wednesday, even though he has impaired vision.

Dr. Hurst has 20-20 vision in his left eye but can only distinguish movement and light intensity in his right eye. This defect can be repaired as soon as a hemorrhage heals, says Dr. Hurst.

Dr. Hurst also expressed thanks to all those who went to see him in the hospital and for all the flowers and cards he received.

3rd Language Conference to Feature Plans

The third annual conference for foreign language teachers will be held tomorrow in the Conference Center at Omaha University.

The theme of this year's conference is "The Place of Life and Culture in the Teaching of Foreign Languages."

"The conference was organized to afford teachers the opportunity to keep up to date on the teaching of foreign languages," said Dr. Christopher S. Espinosa, chairman of OU's department of foreign languages and literatures.

Speakers at the conference include Dr. Craig K. Fullerton, Asst. Supt. of Instruction, Omaha Public Schools, whose talk is entitled, "A Year of Continuing Development."

H. Vaughn Phelps, supt. of district 66 schools, will speak on "Understanding People Through Their Languages."

Dr. Espinosa will give a talk entitled, "Language—The Mirror of a Nation."

Three discussion demonstrations will be held for three language groups with the subject being, "The Place of Life and Culture in the Teaching of Foreign Languages."

Dr. Espinosa will lead the Spanish group. Leading the French group will be Prof. Forrest Hazard of OU's department of foreign languages and literatures. Dr. Ivo N. Lambi, instructor in OU's department of history will lead the German group.

The conference, which will be attended by teachers from grade schools, high schools and universities, in Nebraska and Iowa, is being conducted by the department of foreign languages and literatures, the College of Education and the College of Adult Education at OU.

The planning committee for the conference are Dr. Espinosa, Paul C. Kennedy, asso. prof. of Edu., and Michel Bellis, director of conferences and short courses.

Regents Up Nine New Profs

The University of Omaha Board of Regents Thursday promoted nine faculty members, gave two tenure, rehired 15 on an annual basis and established the "Frederick W. Kayser Chair of Economics."

—promoted from instructor to assistant professor on an annual basis: Harold Davis, engineering; Dr. George Rothrock, history.

—promoted from associate professor to professor with continuance of contractual agreement on permanent basis: Dr. Frederick Adrian, history; Dr. Hollie Bethel, elementary education; Dr. Joseph Dunn, elementary education; Dr. Leta Holley, secretarial science; Dr. Paul Kennedy, secondary education; Miss Hedvig Nyholm, English; Dr. Donald Woods, speech.

Three new instructors were named effective September 1, 1961:

Robert L. Ackerman will be an instructor in elementary education. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Omaha in 1952 and his master's degree in 1953. He has been principal at Oakdale School since 1956.

Bernard L. Behers, Jr., will be instructor in education and assistant supervisor of the military education program. He received his bachelor of general education degree from the University of

First Day Count 'Revealing;' Signal at Sixtieth May Go

Armed with a set of "interesting and revealing" statistics, President Milo Bail plans to go to the city with a proposal to ease Omaha University traffic problems.

Within a few weeks he hopes to "mask off the Sixtieth Street traffic light and install a pedestrian light at Sixty-second Street."

His decision came following the first day of the now-running student driving survey.

Official Notices

Thanksgiving vacation will begin at 9:40 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 23. Classes will resume the following Monday at 7:30 a. m.

Students interested in Christmas work at the Post Office must apply between now and Nov. 25 at the Nebraska State Employment Service, 18th and St. Marys.

Applications won't be accepted after the 25th.

The Tomahawk Beauty Contest will be held Wednesday, Dec. 7. Contestants may register Nov. 28.

Independent, unaffiliated and sorority women are urged to sign up.

Plans Underway for Frosh Talent Show

The annual Freshman Talent Show is now being planned and acts for the show will be auditioned after Thanksgiving vacation, according to Dean of Student Personnel Curt Seimers.

Anyone who wishes to try out for the show can enter his act in the Student Activities Office, Room 250 today.

Mr. Seimers asks that participants in tryouts have the following information before their trial date: type of act; approximate length of act; number of persons in act; type of costumes required and special props needed.

He also asks that the act be polished before the audition. The contest will be sometime before Christmas vacation.

"These figures bear out what I expected," he said. "OU traffic is not the dominant factor in the Dodge Street congestion problem."

Figures produced Monday, probably the heaviest day of the week, showed an average of three cars making left turns into the campus every two minutes.

Traffic exaggerated

"You can't beat that at any busy intersection in town," the president declared.

He admitted the number increases notably during rush hours but "still I feel our share is being exaggerated."

Significant, according to the president, is the revealed fact that nearly half (47 per cent) of all cars entering and leaving the University do so via the Elmwood Park routes.

He noted that this number could be increased without appreciable snarl, even during heavy periods.

The Monday count showed that 10,631 cars entered or left the campus. Presumably, every car would be counted twice.

Few Wrong Turns

Tabulators marked 3,447 autos passing the Sixtieth Street entrance, 879 the Sixty-second Street gate and 1,304 the Sixty-fourth Street turn.

"Only 25, or less than one per cent, made illegal left turns from Dodge," Dr. Bail pointed out.

He again expressed confidence that whatever problem exists could be worked out by means other than the "access road" proposed by a group of downtown planners.

City Inaccurate

"I think our greatest need is a means to improve the access to the Happy Hollow Boulevard and Elmwood Park Road entrances," Dr. Bail said.

A spokesman for the City Traffic Engineering Dept. claimed that only 22,500 cars travel Dodge Street past the campus in a 24-hour period but anyone taking a sample count may see the inaccuracy of this count.

More than 32 hundred cars passed the campus on Dodge Street between 4 and 5 p. m. Wednesday.

Wardle to Present 'Birth of a Book'

Dr. Ralph Wardle, author of "The Autobiography of Oliver Goldsmith," will be the first speaker in the Faculty Lecture series for students.

Dr. Wardle's topic "Birth of a Book" will deal with the many faces that go into writing a book research, editing and background work.

The lecture will be in the Student Center at 3 p. m. Monday, Nov. 21.

Graduation Official

It's official: mid-semester graduates will have their own commencement ceremonies this year.

As tentatively announced in last week's Gateway, the exercises will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday, Jan. 28.

This will be the first time in more than 10 years that non-June graduates will be graduated in separate ceremonies.

A Foggy Night, Two Girls Then Tragedy

By Ken Zimmerman

Only the sound of a rat rum-maging through a garbage can disturbed the sinister silence of the darkened alley.

In the distance a bell tower could be heard striking midnight.

As the last chime faded into the foggy night a lone figure stepped from a shadowed doorway, her silhouette sharply defined against the piercing beam of a streetlight.

"Penelope, are you there?" she called to the darkness.

"Over here, sis," came the guarded reply.

The girls rushed to each other, cast furtive glances toward the entrances at either end of the passageway then clutched anxiously at each other's quivering body.

"Now listen, we haven't much time," Penelope whispered. "Mom says you have to babysit tonight."

The younger girl started a muffled cry of despair but she was quickly hushed by her sister.

"Quiet!" was the command. "I hear something."

But the warning was too late. The misty darkness was shattered by the bursting of several rude flashbulbs.

Though blinded and stunned Penelope well knew what had happened, that despite her elaborate plans to keep secret the clandestine meeting she had been caught.

Five girls moved in from their hiding places. They circled the two ensnared captives. Their sorority pins glimmered in the filtered rays of the streetlight.

"The Panhellenic Council will be interested in these snapshots," one of the intruders sneered.

Taking Penelope's hand the younger sister broke into tears.

"It's all my fault," she sobbed. "I should have realized that as a high school senior I have no right to see you."

"That's all right now, sis," Penelope said reassuringly. "I've got a few tricks of my own."

The following day, as the Panhellenic Council sat to pass judgement on the complaint filed as result of the pirated photos, Penelope sat with an air of obvious confidence.

When she was called upon to speak she produced an envelope and made a great display of withdrawing and fanning out a series of snapshots.

"Take a look at these," she declared defiantly. "If you will notice the girl on the left. Her face is plainly visible. She is no other than Gigi Jorgensen, one of the Kappa Chi's who took those pictures of me and my sister."

"And who is this other girl," inquired the dean.

"She is, of all people, the president of the student council at Weatherbee High School," the defendant replied. "She works at the branch library across the street from Gigi's house."

"I see," said the dean, pondering. "And Gigi checked out books from this high school senior?"

"Yes," replied Penelope. "I was hiding behind a bookshelf when I caught the picture."

Now on the offensive, Penelope went to show pictures of Kappa Chi actives in such situations as borrowing a cup of sugar from a next-door neighbor, a high school girl, and teaching a Sunday-school class where many of the youngsters had older sisters in high school.

"I'm shocked," said the dean. "It's a full year of social probation for the Kappa Chi sorority."

"But you, too, have sinned, Penelope," the magistrate added. "Your sorority will have to take six month probation for your meeting with your sister."

The gavel pounded and the case was closed.

Folk Dancing Club Planned

Anyone interested in folk dancing and music will have a chance to join such a group on campus, Dean of Student Personnel Curt Siemers said.

Morris Gelman, a member of the Air Force missile project in Nebraska and a student of early American music and dancing, has offered his services to start a club here.

All that's lacking is the clapping hands and tapping toes of interested students. A list for prospective members will be at the information desk in the Student Center today.

The program is to be part of the regular activities schedule in the Student Center.

Students Organize Theological Group

Attempts are being made to organize a Pre-Theological Club on the campus. Fred Anderson, leader of the drive, has extended an invitation to all Pre-Theology students.

A luncheon meeting is planned for Wednesday, Nov. 23, in Alcove A in the Student Center cafeteria at 12:30.

Christmas Carol Contest Dec. 12

Teh Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity Christmas carol contest will be Dec. 12 at 3:30 in the Library Conference Center.

Rules for entering the contest follow: The student must be taking at least 12 hours at OU; he must register by signing up at the bulletin board in the Music Building; he must turn in a copy of the carol to Kermit Peters' Office by Nov. 30; he must conduct his own number.

The composition should contain original music, words from any appropriate source, and must be the length of a typical carol.

Carols will be judged on originality, style, and lyric content.

The winning carol will be sung by the OU choir at the Christmas convocation and a plaque will be awarded the winning composer.

Anyone with pictures of Maie Day floats from last spring should take them to the Tomahawk Office by Monday, Nov. 21.

Will Political Groups Stay?

Three organizationals appeared on the OU campus during the local, state and national election campaigns.

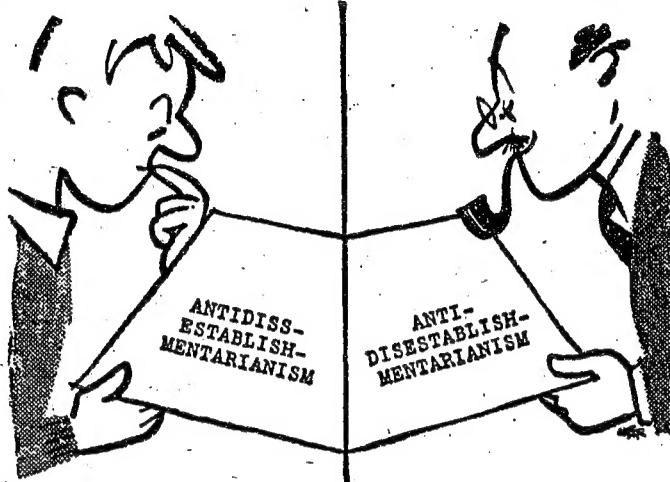

Two of the groups, the Young Democrats and Young Republicans, were formed last spring; and the Independent group organized during the Draft Bonner campaign.

All of the groups expanded in size and program during the period. During the final weeks they conducted numerous rallies, sponsored renowned speakers and circulated pamphlets and other political material.

Political interest was stimulated on campus as a result of the efforts of the organizations. In the past there were such groups at OU but they weren't nearly as active and stimulating.

The current campus question is, "Will the groups continue to exist?" or "Will they close shop and rest until the next big election year?"

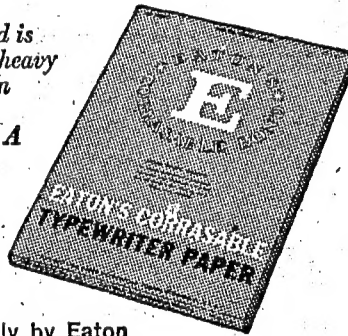

If the groups adhere to their plans, political interest should prevail at OU at all times, not just every two or four years.

Angel Flight Tours Offutt Air Base

Offutt Air Force Base Officers Club will host the OU Angels Flight at their annual brunch Sunday.

Each fall the Angels in dress uniforms meet at the Club for a brief tour through its ultra-modern atmosphere before a buffet brunch. Then they attend church services together in the base chapel.

A guided tour of OAFB will be included in the day's events.

Chief of the Omaha Fire Department, Eugene Fields, was presented with a silver tray engraved Sigma Kappa following a successful pledge skip at his house last Wednesday.

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill in and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team.

Cross Country Meet Is Here

Omaha University will host the Central Intercollegiate Conference Cross Country meet tomorrow.

OU finished fourth in the CIC meet last year. Emporia State placed first followed by Fort Hays, Pittsburg, OU and Washburn. St. Benedict's didn't participate.

Denny Dunning, Gene Somer and Nick Dixon have led the Indian harriers through the regular campaign and will carry most of the load in the meet.

The meet will be run over the Elmwood Park course and will cover four miles.

Following the CIC meet will be the NAIA Cross Country championships to be held November 26. The NAIA meet will also be held at OU.

State Convention Will Start Today

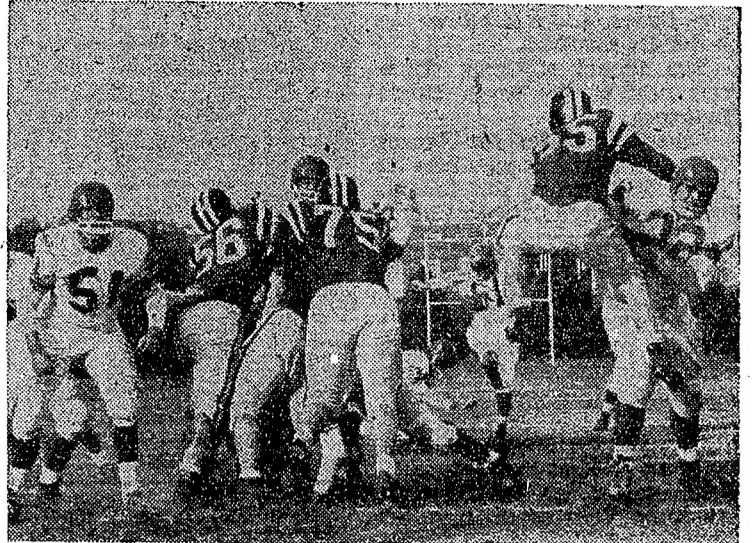

Today is the official opening of the Nebraska Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation State Convention which is being held at Omaha University for the first time this year.

Jesse Owens, former Olympic great and present Sports Specialist of the Illinois Youth Commission, will be one of the featured speakers and will also act as consultant during a track and field clinic Saturday afternoon.

It is expected that close to 70 students will attend the Convention. Carole Lind is in charge of the student registration and Mona McGrath heads the decorations committee for the student banquet.

Guests for the Convention are either instructors or students in a major field of physical education. Invitations have been sent to Chadron, Peru, Kearney, University of Nebraska, Wayne State Teachers, Wesleyan and Doane.

Pittsburg State Downs OU, 32-14

Indians Ferguson (56), Herren (75) and Winters (55) attempt extra point blocking in 32-14 loss to Pittsburg.

Pittsburg State used size and a fine aerial attack to down Omaha University Saturday 32-14.

The Gorillas built a 26-0 half-time lead and coasted the rest of the way.

The Indians, threatening to make it tough on the Gorillas, struck early in the third quarter on a 57-yard pass play from Gary Sindelar to Jim Kettle. Pittsburg shook off the Indian rally and scored once more in the fourth quarter to give them a wide enough margin to withstand any further OU attack.

The tribe added its final touchdown in the fourth period when Roger Sayers went 56 yards on a sweep. The touchdown was Sayers' fifth giving him scoring honors for the campaign.

The final game loss left the Indians with one win, seven losses and one tie for season. Their CIC record stood at one win against four losses.

For the second straight year OU finished in a tie for last place in the Central Intercollegiate Conference with Fort Hays.

Fort Hays' only win came at the expense of the Indians 19-18 while the Indians chalked up their only win against Emporia State in the Homecoming contest 7-0.

The Emporians finished third in the CIC behind St. Benedict's and Pittsburg with a 2-3 record.

Of the 25 players employed in the final game, 21 are expected to return. Only four members of the team have used up their college eligibility or will be lost by graduation.
